CHIEF OF POLICE SLASHED ON ARM

"Dude" Pea Resisted Arrest And in Fight That Followed, McAllister
Sustained Painful Injury.

WOUND EIGHT INCHES LONG

Raid on Home of "Luge" Pea Resulted in Water Haul—Grand Jury Will Investigate.

Following a raid on the home of Albert Pea, better known as "Luge," in Buena Vista avenue late Saturday night, Chief of police McAllister was slashed across the left arm by Omer (Dude) Pea. The police were coming from the house when they encountered Dude Pea, who was placed under arrest after he had used abusive language and made brags as to what he would do to the police. In the fight that followed Chief McAllister sustained a cut about eight inches long on the left arm between the shoulder and elbow.

Dude Pea was standing about ten feet away from the police when placed under arrest and when Chief McAllister started towards him Pea slashed with the knife. In the fight that followed McAllister broke his club over Pea's head and he took the count twice before giving up the fight. The wound on McAllister's arm required nine stitches and while quite painful will not prove serious. Pea was badly battered and for his part of the affair will face the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. He will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Mayor Black and as the grand jury convenes Friday the case is likely to go before it.

The police have received numerous complaint about gambling going on at the home of Luge Pea and Saturday night decided to investigate. The police found no evidence of gambling although they were not admitted for several minutes after first demanding entrance. They found Elmer Hendricks, Jesse Sorrell, Alex Sorrell, Tom Trobridge, Will Irvin and "Monk" Pea in the house. Mrs. Pea told the police that she invited the men there to spend the evening in order to keep her husband home. The police believe the men were gambling as they say it required six to seven minutes from the time they first knocked on the door until they were admitted.

The police were leaving and were in front of the house when Dude Pea met them. The raid took place shortly before midnight.

SEXTET WITH ORCHESTRA

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spencer Sing in Indianapolis Concert.

It is rather unusual for a sextet to be heard at an orchestra concert, but it proved a pleasing diversion, both the singers and the famous ensemble from "Lucia" being already popular with Indianapolis concert goers, says the Indianapolis Star, speaking of the Indianapolis orchestra concert Sunday. Mrs. Arnold Spencer, Miss Eva Jeffries, Homer H. VanWie, Arnold F. Spencer, Orin D. Walker and Franklin N. Taylor were the singers chosen by Alexander Erstinoff, director of the orchestra, to compose the sextet which was to give the famous excerpt, and that they sang it splendidly goes without saying. They succeeded in bringing forth its dramatic quality, and so well pleased was the audience that two encores were demanded.

TO GIVE LINCOLN SPEECH

James E. Watson Will Talk in Kansas City Wednesday Night.

James E. Watson will deliver a Lincoln day speech at Kansas City, Missouri, Wednesday night. Mr. Watson has been busily engaged in preparing the speech at his home here since the middle of last week and will probably not leave for Kansas City before tomorrow night. The former congressman will speak under the auspices of the Republican club of Kansas City. It will be recalled that on a recent visit of Mr. Watson to Kansas City there were rumors of him being mentioned as a candidate for president which were published in Kansas City newspapers.

WILL CELEBRATE 92ND BIRTHDAY

Ann M. Bowles of Milroy Has as Fresh a Viewpoint as Woman of 21.

TAKEN REPUBLICAN SINCE 1840

Ann M. Bowles of Milroy, although ninety-two years old, has as fresh a view of life as any young woman of twenty-one years. She will celebrate her ninety-second anniversary tomorrow, and her sister, Alida Parsons, who lives with her, will pass her eighty-seventh birthday next Friday. They are both healthy and attend to all their own household duties.

They came to Rushville with their parents when they were two and seven years old respectively. They later moved to Milroy and have been living there a number of years. Ann Bowles is a great admirer of former Congressman James E. Watson and has often expressed the belief that she will live to see him president of the United States. She has been a subscriber to the Republican since it was started in 1840.

OLD CUSTOM WAS REVIVED IN COURT

For First Time in Several Years
Record Was Read to Judge and Attorneys.

GUARDIAN WAS APPOINTED

For the first time in several years the court record was read in open court this morning. The record was for the week just past and the custom will be carried out each week by Judge Megee. The custom of reading the record of the civil business was long ago abandoned and in order to carry out the proper court procedure Judge Megee will have the record read every Monday morning. The cases set down for trial today were readily disposed of and the business was rather light.

In the petition of Lillie May Doughty against Maude Rogers the court found for the plaintiff and appointed Lucius H. Doughty guardian. Mr. Doughty's bond was placed at $100. The court heard the argument on a demurrer in the case of Andy Yunker against Jesse Harlow on a note, but returned no decision.

SOMETHING TO DO BESIDES PAY

P. R. Shephard, of St. Louis, Tells Church Members There is Work for Them.

MAKES FIVE ADDRESSES HERE

Pleads for Child-Centered Church—
Declares Day of Pew and Pulpit Worship Passed.

P. R. Shephard, of St. Louis, Mo., editor of the Christian church publications, has delivered five addresses since he came here Saturday afternoon, and will wind up his stay in Rushville this evening with a talk at a men's banquet to be given in the basement of the Main Street Christian church, under the auspices of the Men's Century Bible class of the Christian Sunday school.

In his address on "The New Church and the New Age" at the Christian church last night, Mr. Shephard asserted that there is something for church members to do besides hire a pastor and keep up the church.

"We must cut out this nonsense and get down to business," said Mr. Shephard. "We must start schools and we must teach. We have something mapped out for us to do. We can not stand idly by and allow the pastor to shoulder all the burdens."

Mr. Shephard declared that there is only one warrant for the existence of the church and that is its Christ-mindedness. We are challenging the church to show its goods, and for this reason, he said, we are compelled to fall back on our fundamentals.

He declared that the author of the new book, "Christianizing the Social Order," is a prophet who says some astonishing things, but who will be borne out by future events.

He recalled that the author said homes of this country are Christian, even though the United States has the worst record for home wreckers in the world. The Christian sentiment has influenced the home, he said.

Mr. Shephard pointed out that the new work says the schools here are Christian, even though it is the only nation in the world where no religion is allowed in the public schools. But, he said, the teachers are influenced by the Christian religion and influence the children in that direction.

The new book says politics is Christian, the speaker said, in spite of the fact that there are a few political "heathens" left yet, who, when accusations are made, flee like cockroaches in a dirty kitchen when the sunlight is turned on them. In this connection he commended the national house of representatives for its action Saturday when the bill prohibiting the shipment of intoxicants into "dry" states was passed.

The astonishing assertion of the author, Mr. Shephard declared, was that business is non-Christian. He points out that business is organized for profit and has nothing but a selfish aim.

Mr. Shephard urged church members to be aroused from their lethargy and realize that they have a mission to fulfill. He pointed out that the United States offers the most urgent missionary field, since sixty per cent of the inhabitants are either foreign born or of foreign parentage, and that more foreigners have come into the United States in the last twenty years than lived here at the close of the civil war.

At the morning service Mr. Shephard pleaded for a child-centered church. He censured the method of building churches which makes no provision for the child.

"Modern church going," he said,

BILL TO PREVENT CHECK SWINDLE

Measure In Legislature Proposes
Heavy Fine and Prison Term
For Violation.

SHIFTS BURDEN OF PROOF

Provides Same Penalty For Person Who Writes Check And Has No Funds.

Senator Harlan has introduced in the senate a bill, which credit men and merchants declare would go a long way toward stopping the defrauding of business men and other persons by means of worthless checks. Numerous states in the Union have strong laws on the check question, but the Indiana law has proved to have several weaknesses. The Harlan bill has the indorsement of numerous organizations, as well as of business men as individuals.

It is being pointed out that under the present system of doing business the check is the usual and ordinary means of paying money, and because of the necessity of accepting considerable numbers of checks in the ordinary course of business, any dealer, wholesale or retail, takes the chance of taking in worthless checks.

The present law provides that whoever, with intent to defraud, or by color or aid of a check, draft or order for the payment of money or the delivery of property, although no express representation is made in reference thereto, obtains from another any money or property, when the drawer or maker of such check, draft or order is not entitled to draw on the drawee from the sum specified therein, or to order the payment of the money or delivery of the property, shall be fined from $100 to $5,000, to which may be added imprisonment for one to five years.

The Harlan bill provides that whoever, with intent to defraud by obtaining money, merchandise, property, credit or thing of value, although no express representation is made in reference thereto, or who, in the payment of any obligation, shall make, draw, utter or deliver any check, draft or order for the payment of money, knowing at the time that the maker has not sufficient funds in or credit with the bank, person, firm or corporation for the payment of the check, order or check in full upon its presentation, shall be guilty of a crime, the punishment set out being the same as in the present law.

One of the important provisions of the bill is the following: "The making, drawing, uttering or delivering of such check or draft, or order, as aforesaid shall be prima facie evidence of intent to defraud. The word 'credit' as used herein shall be construed to mean an arrangement or understanding with the bank, depository, person, firm or corporation for the payment of such check, draft or order." The bill does not seek to repeal any law, but to enact a law supplementary to the present laws.

Thus the bill would put upon the drawer of a worthless check the burden of proving that he had no intent to defraud. Under the present law, the burden of showing what was the state of mind of the drawer of a worthless check is on the prosecution. In other words, the bill is intended to cut out the well-known practice of the man who has 96 cents in bank, drawing several checks for $25 or $50 or even larger sums against his account, and escaping prosecution by reason of the insignificant balance that he keeps in bank. Whereas, under the present law, the burden of proving that the

WILL NOT DIVULGE NAME

Prosecutor Will Not Say Where Anonymous Letter Writer Lives.

Prosecutor Donald Smith still refuses to divulge the home of the "Citizen" who wrote him an anonymous letter urging him to investigate the alleged illegal sale of liquor in "blind tigers." He says the report that the letter came from Manilla did not come from him and that he will not give the name of the town. It was reported that the letter was written by a resident of Moscow, but the prosecutor refuses to confirm this.

COMMITTEE AT WORK ON PLANS

Tentative Arrangements Made For Addition Which May be Built to Christian Church.

PRESENTED TO P. R. SHEPHARD

Tentative plans for an addition or improvement of the Main Street Christian church that will add interest for the young people were submitted by men of the church at a meeting with P. R. Shephard, editor of the Christian church publication at St. Louis, Mo., at the church yesterday afternoon. Nothing definite has been done as yet but it is said that the church plans to make the improvements in the near future.

Carl Webb, C. E. Walden and John P. Frazee were appointed members of a committee to investigate the needs and make suggestions to this end. Some plans have been drawn and a general outline of what may be done has been presented by the committee. Nothing that will assure the improvement has been done as yet, but is said to be the intention of the church to employ an architect when the time is ripe and prepare for the improvement. The installation of a gymnasium in the basement or the building of an addition to the back end of the church is said to be contemplated.

FOLLOWS LIFE FRIEND TO GRAVE

Mrs. Sarah J. Meal, Age 90, of Orange Township Dies Day After
Mrs. Lucinda Owens.

HEART TROUBLE CAUSES DEATH

Lives Three-Quarters of Century on Farm Where She Expired—
Funeral Today.

Mrs. Sarah J. Meal, ninety years old, died at her home in Orange township, Saturday following a lengthy illness. The end came from an attack of heart trouble and was quite sudden, though not unexpected, as she had been growing weaker with each passing day since her illness began on account of her advanced age. She was a neighbor and close friend of Mrs. Lucinda Owens, eighty-eight year old, who died Friday and the two were the oldest ladies in the township.

Mrs. Meal was born in Franklin county, Ohio, August 29, 1832, but had come to this state to live at the age of five years. She had made her home for three-quarters of a century on the farm where her death occurred. She became the wife of Moses Meal, December 25, 1842, and nine children were born to the union. Mr. Meal died in January, 1877, and only three of the children survive. They are James Meal, who made his home with his mother; Franklin Meal and Mrs. Samantha Inlow both of Orange township. She also leaves seventeen grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Meal became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church when a girl, but later changed her membership to the Christian church. She was a noble Christian mother and a neighbor in the truest sense of the word and many will regret her death.

The funeral services were held at the house at ten o'clock this morning, the Rev. J. T. Scull, Sr., officiating, and the interment was made in the Mt. Garrison cemetery.

WOMAN MAKING INDEX OF 100,000 STARS FOR A CATALOGUE

Astronomer at Harvard Plans to Learn What Objects Are Made Of.

She Hopes to Have Little "Sheep of Sky" Ticketed In Two Years.

WHAT are the stars made of? This is one of the first questions asked by childhood. It was one of the first questions asked in the childhood of the human race. And in a few years it is going to be answered, say scientists.

Harvard university, or, more specifically, Miss Annie Cannon of the Harvard observatory, is solving the riddle that has puzzled man through all his millions of ages, solving it by means of a telescope, a prism and a camera. Since October, 1911, she has been at the work. In about two years more she will finish it, and in something like five years the observatory will publish the results. When Miss Cannon has completed her stupendous task one of the most vital achievements of astronomy, ancient or modern, will have been accomplished. The stars will have been analyzed, numbered and catalogued.

In two years the stars' secrets will be so well known at Harvard observatory, it is hoped, that when an astronomer writes for information about the little pin point of light near the handle tip of the dipper, for instance, or about some other spark that cannot even be seen without a powerful telescope, Harvard observatory will simply turn to its card index. On the card that bears the number of the star in question there will be a few lines of neatly written data telling exactly of what the pin point light is made. There are to be about 100,000 of these cards when the classification is finished. They will include every star that can be seen and photographed through a telescope and prism.

Can See Only About 2,000.

"Perhaps this seems a small number," said Miss Cannon when she had been induced to talk about her work for a little while, "but, although people think they can see millions of stars on a clear night, as a matter of fact the human eye can discern only about 2,000."

In order to give Miss Cannon every possible assistance in her task of analyzing 100,000 stars her department at the Harvard observatory has been reduced to a rigid business basis. When the work was new she could analyze at the rate of 1,000 stars in three years. Now she analyzes 5,000 stars in one month, 200 stars an hour. On Jan. 1 she had examined about 65,000, which means about two-fifths of the work is completed.

"Harvard is the only place that has complete material for this work, and Miss Cannon is the only person in the world—man or woman—who can do the work so quickly," said Professor Edward C. Pickering, director of the observatory, in speaking about the importance of Miss Cannon's achievement. "The results will have a bearing on a great many departments of astronomy, especially on the speed with which stars move through space."

Extraordinary as would be the guess—

OCEAN TO OCEAN ROAD GETS $150,000 DONATION

Automobile Company Makes Big Gift in Pledging Support.

With a subscription totaling $150,000 an automobile company of Toledo recently pledged its support to the ocean to ocean highway. The same pro rata levy which has governed the subscriptions of other manufacturers applies in this case, and the company expresses itself as being enthusiastically in favor of the ocean to ocean highway extending from New York to San Francisco.

Automobile manufacturers the country over are taking keen interest in the highway project at present, and it is believed that subscriptions to the fund will come in rapidly. Many manufacturers who were not among the early subscribers to the fund have always been in favor of it, but were compelled to delay definite action until after the first of the year.

JEFFRIES QUILTS SMOKING.

Ex-Champion Swears Off Drink Also on $1,400 Bet.

In Jim Jeffries' saloon recently Barney Oldfield began to banter the ex-champion about his ability to leave off the use of liquor and cigarettes. Jeffries became angry and offered to bet any amount that the automobile racer would cover that he could not only keep from drinking for twelve months, but could drop cigarettes.

By bidding against each other they finally had $2,800 as the stakes which will go to Jeffries next year at this time if he observes the conditions of the wager. If he does not he will lose his own $1,400 as well as what Oldfield put up.

Some of the bystanders thought that Jeffries made the bet so that he might be forced to get into condition and thus "come back" as a "white hope," but he laughingly denied this.

es of a novice as to how Miss Cannon finds out what is in the stars, no guess could be more extraordinary than the plain scientific fact.

Pictures are taken of the sky, each photograph being taken through a telescope and also through a prism. The prism breaks up the rays of light from each star and thus gives the spectrum of every one. With the photographing Miss Cannon has nothing to do. Her task is to examine the photographic plate through a magnifying glass. To the novice the photographic plate shows merely an indiscriminate sprinkling of tiny horizontal streaks.

Heiroglyphs Deciphered.

Of course the colors of each star's spectrum—so beautiful when seen through telescope and prism—do not show upon the photographic plate. But as it happens the colors are not the important part. Across the horizontal streaks of the spectrum run at intervals tiny vertical lines of greater or less breadth and intensity. It is these lines crossing the spectrum vertically that are the index to the constitution of the star.

These peculiar vertical scratches are the heiroglyphs which, deciphered by such an expert as Miss Cannon, tell of chemicals in the star's composition. They mean hydrogen, calcium, helium, iron, all the elements known to us and—as appears from peculiar lines not familiar among those made by earthly chemicals—they mean some element not yet discovered in the earth. It will take about 2,500 photographic plates, 8 by 10 inches, to "cover" the whole sky. Often the plate shows two stars where it was thought only one existed. Many times the camera has caught stars that had never before been catalogued. The most wonderful plate yet taken by the eight inch telescope at either of the Harvard stations—in Cambridge or at Arequipa, Peru—contained seventy-five stars in a spot 4 by 5 inches.

Wonderful New World.

"It might seem that examining an hourly average of 200 streaks with vertical lines through them would not be interesting work," says Miss Cannon. "I know that if my whole heart were not in it such a task would be monotonous. But they aren't just streaks to me—each new spectrum is the gateway to a wonderful new world. In reading these plates world after world opens up under my eyes, territory that has never been explored before. People? I don't know. Astronomers can't say, one way or another. We can merely assemble all the information we can possibly obtain—and then draw deductions."

Miss Cannon is a Wellesley graduate. For fifteen years she has been connected with the Harvard observatory. Tests of her work have shown an amazingly high degree of accuracy where inaccuracy seems almost inevitable.

LET WOMEN SMOKE, SAYS NOTED BRITISH BISHOP

Canon of Westminster Thinks They Should Have Privilege.

"If the men find it a pleasure to smoke, why should that pleasure be relegated to the men and not to women?" asks Bishop William Boyd-Carpenter, canon of Westminster, one of England's leading ecclesiastics, who is visiting in Boston.

He believes that a woman should smoke if she wants to. "Smoking among women will sooner or later adjust itself," he says. "There will be always women who will do things above the ordinary to provoke criticism, and there will be women who will retain their womanly traits and stand for the highest and noblest that there is in life and will not tolerate even smoking as a pleasure."

HAUNTED BY DOG'S CRIES.

Girl Confesses She Set Fire That Burned Barn and Canine.

Julia Schlosser, fifteen years old, employed in the home of Mrs. Anna Schoop, at Monmouth Junction, N. J., has confessed, according to the police, that she started the fire which recently caused $5,000 damage on the Schoop farm.

Charles Schoop, son of Mrs. Schoop, is credited with having forced her to talk by threatening to see a fortune teller and get a description of the firebug. The girl is alleged to have said that the howls of a pet dog which was burned to death at the time continued to ring in her ears, and that made her more willing to make a statement.

TEMPERANCE WINS SWEEPING VICTORY

Congress Votes Death to the Blind Tiger.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The cause of temperance achieved a telling victory when the house of representatives passed the Webb bill regulating the interstate shipment of liquors, by the overwhelming majority of 240 yeas to 65 nays. The bill, which is regarded as the opening wedge to a nation-wide temperance move, permits state officers to seize liquors sent into a "dry" state for improper purposes. The report accompanying the bill says: "It would remove the shackles of the interstate commerce law from the states and discontinue the handicap under which they now labor in enforcing their police regulations, and leave them freer to break up the 'blind tigers' and 'bootleggers' that infest many 'dry' states."

Today the senate will vote on the Kenyon bill, similar to the Webb bill. It is possible the Webb bill will be substituted for the Kenyon bill in the senate and passed and sent up to the president. The temperance forces are in the saddle in the senate also.

BIG FIRE LOSS AT AUBURN

Blaze Starting in Newspaper Office Causes $100,000 Damage.

Auburn, Ind., Feb. 10.—Fire caused a loss of about $100,000 when it destroyed the three-story brick building owned by the W. H. McIntyre company and swept to adjoining structures in the center of the city.

The blaze originated in the plant of the Auburn Courier. The McIntyre building also housed the offices of the county officials while a new courthouse is being constructed. Most of the court records were saved by officials and carried to the vaults of the nearly completed building just across the street.

In the McIntyre building, in addition to the Courier plant, were the plant of the Double Fabric Tire company and the McIntyre garage. Ten automobiles in the garage were burned and buggies worth $20,000 belonging to the McIntyre company, stored on the third floor of the building, were destroyed.

SENSATIONAL REPORT MADE

Reclamation Service Attacked by Congress Committee.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Flagrant abuse of the rights of the Indian farmers, disregard of homestead rights of bona fide settlers and extravagance that makes the reconstruction period in the south look like parsimony by comparison, are among the charges made against the United States reclamation service in a report by the sub-committee of the house committee on expenditure in the interior department.

The report charges that James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior in 1907, signed the papers divesting the Indians of their prior rights in the water supply, and blames him for the burden placed upon the Indians.

FEARED HE WAS IN DANGER

Son of Evansville Manufacturer Kills Three Negro Employees.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 10.—Fear for his life, under the mutterings of negroes whom he helped to supervise, impelled Allen VonBehren, twenty-two years old, to kill three of the men in his father's woodworking plant.

The dead: John Gordon, nineteen years old; Henry Gordon, twenty-two years old; Walter Washington, twenty-three years old.

In five minutes from the time he met John Gordon, the negro with whom he first quarreled, the young son of the proprietor had gone to other parts of the big factory, had killed Gordon's brother and another negro, who was a friend of the Gordons, and was back in the office ready to change from his working clothes to his street suit.

In another five minutes he was up town surrendering himself to the police. He is a prisoner in the county jail, after having waived preliminary hearing, and declares that he will prove that the triple homicide was justified.

The trouble which led to the shooting had its inception several days ago, according to statements of workmen in the factory. Young VonBehren, beyond declaring that he shot in self-defense and that the negroes were framing a plot to take his life, will say little.

ASSASSINS SUCCESSFUL

President Araujo of Salvador Succumbs to Recent Attack.

San Salvador, Feb. 10.—Manuel Araujo, president of Salvador, died at 4:30 Sunday afternoon as a result of wounds inflicted upon him by five assassins on the night of Feb. 4. Carlos Mellendez, first designator, has been placed in charge of the government. All is quiet in the city.

BETTING GRAY? USE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE NATURAL COLOR OF HAIR.

Says Sage and Sulphur Darkens Hair Beautifully and Ends Dandruff.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair, says a well-known local pharmacist. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and even today this simple preparation has no equal. Millions of women and men too, who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive use only Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Nowadays we are not bothered with the task of gathering the sage leaves and the mussy mixing at home. Simply ask at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of the ready to use preparation, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Customers like this best because it darkens so naturally; so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it contains ingredients which take off dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. No, it isn't a dye or even like it. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color.

What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair they say it brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

He Stopped the Correspondence.

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 10.—William Wilson, jr., twenty years old, blew out his brains with a shotgun. That the act was premeditated was evidenced by the following letter addressed to a detective training school at St. Louis: "There will be no more correspondence between us, as I will be dead." His relatives knew of no connection between the young man and the detective agency.

More Trouble Is Feared.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 10.—In a message to the Juarez commander, President Madero states that Felix Diaz has been made a prisoner and that the loyal troops are in control of the situation. Private messages say, however, that many of the police and supposed loyal troops have joined the mutineers and rebels and that more trouble is feared.

SYSTEM'S HEADS
QUAKE IN BOOTS

Secrets of 'Police Graft Being Revealed.

SORDID FACTS ARE COMING OUT

Opening Wedge of Captain Walsh's Confession Has Broken Into the Inner Barriers of the Compact System Which Preyed Upon Vice and Pending Developments Are Expected to Reveal Those "Higher Up."

New York, Feb. 10.—From gamblers, poolroom men and illegal resort keepers, two million four hundred thousand dollars—$1,200,000 for the captains and their collectors; $600,000 for the inspectors—$600,000 into the hands of one man and then out again, divided into three parts, one for a hotel man, one for a man who represents an officeholder and the third for a man who represented himself or another official.

That is the "graft system" as District Attorney Whitman understands it, and that is the "system" upon which he began his first real legal battle today. Before tonight he hopes to have made his first inroad by indictments against Police Inspector Dennis F. Sweeney and Police Captain Thomas W. Walsh.

Walsh has already told much and will tell more. Sweeney's representatives or those who pretended to represent him have already tried to intercede for the inspector and have received no satisfaction. The bargain that Sweeney must make will be a hard one. If he would save himself after indictment he will be handed a statement like the foregoing and will be told to tell the name of the one man to whom he monthly turned over his share of the $50,000 which all the inspectors had to deliver. If Sweeney consents, a circle already cracked by the confession of Walsh will be torn into segments and those protected inside will be disclosed. They are the men whom Whitman is after.

There will be other indictments, too, Mr. Whitman hopes, all of them having to do with the general operation of the system. The cases of William Dubilier and David Maier, charged with bribing David Muller, janitor of the Marlborough apartments, to swear that Mrs. Goode had offered him money to back up her story, will go to the grand jury. Charles E. Foye, the man who accused Henry H. Curran, chairman of the aldermanic investigating committee, with grafting, will have his case presented on a charge of perjury. There will be another case presented against Edward J. Newell, the lawyer for George A. Sipp, already indicted for a misdemeanor. This time the indictment will be under another section of the penal law and will be for a higher degree of crime. There may be another lawyer's case for the jury before the week is over.

The air about the district attorney is now surcharged with hints and promises, expressed or implied, about the graft situation. Word has come to him and word is coming to him from sources he never suspected before, information, hints, tips of where to look, until he and his assistants are now confident that they know exactly the trail of the protection money from the hands of the law-breakers, almost to the hands of the law-makers.

SEEMS TO SUPPORT
CLAIM OF VICTORY

Fighting Apparently Favors the Bulgars.

London, Feb. 10.—The statement that ex-Grand Vizier Hakkı Pasha is going to London to reopen peace negotiations, if true, seems to confirm the statement that the Turks are being defeated in the fighting on the peninsula. The battle on Saturday was apparently severe. Very few details have been received, but the vagueness of the official references at Constantinople tends to support the Bulgarian claim of victory. No fighting later than Friday is reported from the Tchataldja lines, and the action of the allies there confirms the belief that they do not propose to attack the Turks at that point. It is considered in some quarters that their plan is to form their front on a line from Lule Burgas and Babe Eski to Chirliu and act on the defensive, barring all roads to Adrianople.

The laconic "bombardment continues successfully" is the only official statement from Sofia in reference to Adrianople. The Sofia correspondent of the Daily Mail reports that the bombardment on Saturday night was more fierce than since the siege began.

Greek Flying Machine Takes Part in Turkish War.

Athens, Feb. 10.—The Greek naval hydroaeroplane, Captain Nutinsis and another officer, ascended at Mudros bay and flew to the Dardanelles, escorted by a destroyer. They crossed the strait and dropped four bombs over the batteries at the Niagara dock yards. It is not known whether the bombs had any effect. A Turkish field battery and Turkish warships fired on the hydroaeroplane, but without effect, and the machine made a safe descent in the sea off Imbros. The flight lasted two hours and twenty minutes.

Indiana Legislature Begins Second Half.

MANY NEW FACES ARE SEEN

The Terms of Service of the "Thirty Day" Employees Having Expired, There Appeared in the Statehouse Today Large Numbers of Willing Recruits to Fill the Coveted Positions For Final Half of Session.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—Many new faces are seen about the legislative halls with the beginning today of the second half of the legislative session. The "thirty-day employees of the house were "let out" Saturday, and a new set began work today.

During the first half of the session of the Sixty-eighth Indiana general assembly 450 bills were introduced in the house, as against 507 for the same period in 1911. In the senate 356 bills were cast into the legislative hopper. In both houses the lawmakers seem to have struck their gait and rapid progress is expected from now on. Some of the more important measures made good progress during the last week, and the present week promises to see some of them go through both houses. One bit of hard work that was finished during the past week was the preparation of the regular appropriation bill by the joint committee, composed of the finance committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house. The house leaders this week will press their plan to forward as speedily as possible action on the most important measures on the legislative program.

The Public Service Commission.

To provide for the valuation of the steam roads of Indiana a supplemental bill is to be introduced this week in connection with the Spencer public service commission bill.

In the Spencer bill there is no provision for the valuation of steam roads. The matter was left out of the public service commission bill purposely, it is understood. It is said that the valuation bill now pending in the United States senate would cover the proposition of interstate railroads and interstate interurban lines, and that it would not be necessary for the state to cover this matter in its public utilities law. However, the real reason for making the steam road valuation bill a separate measure was the belief that the public service commission bill already carried enough weight.

It is said the new bill to cover the matter of valuing the steam roads will carry identically the valuation clause that is found in the Spencer bill, and that it will include public utilities which may not come specifically within the definition of a public utility as found in the Spencer bill. This is said to mean utilities conducted by persons, firms or partnerships, which were not mentioned in the Spencer bill. The supplement will serve to take the place of certain amendments which were attempted to be made when the Spencer bill was up for passage in the house.

Sunday Theater Bill Opposed.

Indignation over the introduction in the senate by Senator Zearing of the bill to permit theaters and picture shows to remain open on Sundays has reached the point where a movement has been started not only to kill this bill, but also to repeal the provision of the law which permits baseball to be played on Sundays. The movement has not yet taken definite form, but talk in support has been heard and it is understood that definite steps along this line are to be taken. Those behind this plan say with Sunday baseball legalized, the effort to legalize Sunday theaters and the bill to permit saloons to keep open on certain holidays, it is time to call a halt.

The committee on public morals has made a report favoring the passage of the senate Sunday theater bill, in spite of the protests that have been made against the enactment of such anti-Sunday legislation.

Before the present session of the legislature opened, it was reported that the picture show people were planning to introduce a bill to permit their houses to run on Sundays, but when officials of the organization were asked about the report they denied it, and said they had no intention of asking any legislation at the hands of the legislature. They said all they asked was to be left alone. In spite of their assertion that they would ask nothing, this Zearing bill has been introduced to give them the very thing which the rumor said they would ask for.

From all over the state protests are coming in against the passage of the Zearing bill, and the storm the bill has stirred up promises to be a fierce one.

The Tingle inheritance tax bill, which passed the house, will be reported favorably by the senate judiciary committee with a slight amendment. A clause of the bill provides for the exemption from the tax money or property left by devise or bequest to a corporation to be used for religious purposes. The senate amendment to the bill includes in the exemption money or property left to Catholic bishops for the use of the church.

In an open letter to congress, copies of which were sent to each member of the senate and house, Alfred W. Lawson of New York, publisher of Aircraft, one of the foremost advocates of aviation in this country, calls attention to the lamentable and dangerous position of the United States in the advance of the new science of flight.

"As I write," he says, "the United States of America stands thirteenth on the list of governments that have made expenditures for the purpose of aerial development. China ranks still below us, but so pitifully insignificant have been the American appropriations for this work that China could overtake and go beyond us in a day."

Mr. Lawson states at the outside his opinion that "the time has now arrived for this nation to start the construction of a great aerial fleet both for offensive and defensive purposes. In fact, in view of the great progress of other nations along these lines, further delay on our part must be considered little short of criminal negligence. Delay is jeopardizing the best interest of our people and of the army and navy in particular. For every year we delay now two years will be required later to overtake the nations that now lead us and are increasing that lead with every setting of the sun."

United States Should Spend $10,000,000.

Mr. Lawson's estimate of the needs of America is an immediate appropriation of $10,000,000 by congress for an adequate aerial fleet of both aeroplanes and dirigibles, besides the necessary personnel, the removal of duty from foreign airships (rigid dirigibles) for two years to stimulate their importation, while maintaining a heavy tariff on aeroplanes and otherwise stimulating the manufacture of both types in this country by subsidies and government purchases.

"Germany," he says, "leads the countries of the world in governmental expenditures, having expended to date approximately $10,000,000 for aeronautical equipment.

Asserts Possibility of Invasion.

"Germany, for instance, could play havoc with this country if war broke out today. Yes; within thirty days it could have within our shores and right over our heads at least ten great armored air cruisers of the Zeppelin and Schuette-Lanz types and 200 or more of the latest pattern war aeroplanes. How? you ask. The easiest way possible. These ten great air cruisers could be accompanied across the ocean by a flotilla of steamships with supplies, just as a fleet of naval vessels are accompanied by colliers and supply ships on their long voyages.

"They could be reprovioned, regasolined and recharged with hydrogen gas as often as necessary en route by these supply ships and again innumerable times while standing off our very shores, say a hundred miles away and out of sight of our forts and fleets. These airships, which have a radius of action of about 1,200 miles and are capable of staying in the air for forty-eight hours without the necessity of having to be restocked with gasoline or hydrogen, could float over our forts and fleets as though they never existed and find their way right to the very hearts of our great cities.

No Defense Available.

"It would require but two or three of these great ships of the air to float over Washington and lay its magnificent public buildings in waste. They could pour down shot and shell—in fact, tons of ignitable explosives—right over the halls of congress themselves, and the strangest part of the whole affair would be our absolute helplessness to prevent it. They could come and go by day or by night without opposition by merely rising high enough. All they would have to do would be to discharge their cargo of explosives and return over our great fortresses, without fear or harm to their ocean convoy, reload and repeat the operation.

"Japan is even now stealthily collecting a fleet of both aeroplanes and dirigibles. Within one short year she has outdistanced us in governmental appropriations for aeronautical work at a ratio of about 8 to 1."

Fitting Praise.

At a recent luncheon given under the auspices of the International Peace Forum in honor of President Taft, the president of that society, Henry Clews, paid high tribute to the guest of honor. He said some fine things of President Taft and the interesting thing about it is that the American people know now that all the praise spoken of him is true and well deserved. Mr. Clews says of Mr. Taft, in part:

Mr. President, your administration has been clean, honest and masterful; capable; some previous ones have probably been equal to it, but none better since the time of that great and good man whose birthday anniversary the nation will shortly celebrate—George Washington.

"It is to your credit, Sir, and is something which will live for all time, that you were the first ruler of the great nations of the world to advance the proposition that all international disputes, even those involving the honor and vital interests of nations, should be settled by a court of arbitration.

"I think, Mr. Taft, that in the simplicity of your life while in the White House, you have outdone even Thomas Jefferson in democracy and kind attention to the plain people, which they should fully appreciate.

"For many years, wherever you have gone, you have met with the respect due to the representative of a great nation. After the 4th of March wherever you go, you will be met as Mr. Taft, and the honor paid to you then will be a tribute of the general love that is felt for you as a private citizen, and as a man, and from none other will this tribute be given more heartily than from the thousands of those who voted for your successor on party grounds, but who regard you as a personal friend, peerless patriot and matchless statesman, whose splendid democracy has seldom been equaled, and never surpassed, in our country's history.

Popularity of Parcel Post.

Whatever one may think of the postoffice as a business institution, it is a general rule that postoffice officials and clerks are courteous. Their tenure of office depends on favorable public sentiment, and they have to be.

While there are many individual exceptions, the general tone of newspaper comment has always been that the express companies were not easy to do business with. Intrenched by a long period of great profits, they were very independent. In case of delays and losses it often been difficult to get satisfaction.

The pleasure which the public feels in using the new system is thus not merely due to the fact that rates are lower. Considering the big profits the express companies made, one would think they would have gone the limit to smooth out friction.

A public service corporation that makes every effort to please customers and see things from the public's point of view is often forgiven for unduly high rates.

Chairman Underwood is finding out that the Democratic party is always in trouble when, by some political accident, it strikes the line of constructive statesmanship.

A year ago there was a deficit of $25,000,000 in the national treasury. Now there is a surplus. Last year ended with a surplus and the Republican record is still in the ascending scale.

A good deal is being said about regulating the supply of money, but it will never conform to the principles of political economy until it is made equal to the demand.

Considering that Adrianople was falling all the time for six months, it should have quite a bump when it really does come down.

As it is going to cost only $18 a minute to telephone between New York and San Francisco, the new connection will be very popular for "visiting."

Considering the high price of gasoline and tires, it is not likely that anyone will have the heart to haze the rich any further by imposing an income tax.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

AT WHOSE REQUEST.

(Connersville News.) That bill of Earl Crawford's and Cary Jackson's to appoint certain township officials in case of death or resignation is one of the rarest flowers that has sprouted in the legislative garden this year. It would take the power now vested in the auditor or commissioners, elected by the people and transfer it to a man probably selected by a boss or at most by a few committeemen. And still Democrats proclaim that the people shall rule. We have rather a high regard for the present General Assembly, Democratic though it is and are confident that it will not approve any such measures. It would be interesting to know who it was that requested Mr. Jackson to introduce the bill in the Senate.

portunity of hearing in concert an Indiana boy who has made rapid and wonderful progress in musical and theatrical circles—Orville Harold.

About five years ago there appeared at English's Opera House a boy who announced his name as Orville Harold, and that he had come from Muncie. He asked that his voice be tried. The musical director of the show then at English's gave the boy his "try-out" and found such a wonderful voice that he immediately announced his "discovery." A few days later Orville Harold was called to Chicago to sing with prominent company then presenting grand opera in English.

Later he was engaged by the Hammersteins and after singing roles in several New York productions, went abroad. Now he comes back to the town in which he first made himself known to the world of music, to demonstrate what a good voice, plus pluck, will gain for one determined to make progress in his chosen field.

With Maude Adams in the title role, "Peter Pan" J. M. Barrie's delightful fantasy, will be the attraction at English's opera house on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 14th and 15th, matinee Saturday.

The story of the play deals with the three Darling children. Peter Pan, the boy who just would not grow old, comes in at a window and spirits the children away to Never, Never, Never Land, and introduces them to all sorts of adventures, such as children picture in their minds scores of times, but which grown-ups, except Mr. Barrie, have forgotten. Before the end of the play the audience realizes that every man with the heart of a boy is a "Peter Pan."

BERNARDO REYES

Old General Falls in the Latest Revolt in Mexico.

WILSON MUST MEET THE NEW SITUATION

Mr. Taft Will Not Disturb the Status Quo.

Washington, Feb. 10.—During the three weeks remaining of the Taft administration there will be no intervention in Mexico as a result of the explosion in Mexico. It was authoritatively stated today that President Taft's policy of non-intervention would be maintained to the last hour of his occupation of the White House. It is practically certain, however, that warships will be dispatched to the important ports of Mexico, on both the east and west coasts. There is now only one American warship in Mexican waters, the Denver, which is at Acapulco. The entire Atlantic fleet, however, is at Guantanamo bay, Cuba, within easy striking distance of the east coast of Mexico, while Admiral Southerland has two cruisers, the Colorado and the South Dakota, ready to sail at short notice from San Diego.

There is already a sufficient force of United States troops along the Mexican border to handle any situation which may arise there, short of an actual invasion of Mexican territory. The sending of warships to Mexican ports will be solely for the purpose of affording a refuge and protection for Americans who may be endangered by possible disorders arising out of the revolt in the capital. It is definitely known that President Taft will instruct any American troops sent to the scene to be discreet in their conduct and avoid as far as possible the necessity for landing armed forces on Mexican soil or the use of force in any way to bring the United States into a clash with Mexico.

In view of President Taft's conviction that duty requires him to do his utmost to preserve the status quo with regard to relations with Mexico, in order not to embarrass his successor, the certainty that President Wilson will have to make an immediate decision with regard to Mexico is regarded as the most interesting phase of the new situation.

MANY SLAIN IN BLOODY BATTLE

Fresh Revolt Against Mexico's President.

PLAZA TURNED TO SHAMBLES

Thousands Gathered to Witness the Attack on Governmental Palace in Mexico's Capital Find Themselves Between a Cross Fire of Federals and Insurrectos—Three Americans Slain, Two of Whom Were Women.

Mexico City, Feb. 10.—The soldiers of the local garrison revolted late Saturday night and captured the powder magazine in a suburb about six miles from the city. At daylight Sunday morning the First cavalry and other soldiers of the garrison formed and marched to the Zocalo plaza in perfect order. On their way to the national palace the soldiers captured and disarmed all policemen.

At the palace, which was in charge of federals and the cadet corps, the cavalry was welcomed, the palace guard joining the revolt, all indulging in shouts of "Viva Diaz." The cavalry commander then ordered his regiment to proceed to the penitentiary and there demanded the immediate release of Generals Felix Diaz and Bernardo Reyes. Both of these men were then taken to the palace by the troops, followed by huge crowds shouting for Diaz and Reyes and "Death to Madero." Their arrival at the palace was marked by the enthusiastic thousands of common people thronging continually into the plaza, on the east side of which stands the governmental buildings. The cavalry, was about 500 strong and the infantrymen lined up the full length of the palace, almost 700 feet. Other troops were lying on the paving in skirmish order. A body of mounted police were stationed at the south end of the palace, where Diaz stood watching.

Signal For a General Fight.

Suddenly the south door of the palace, known as the president's door, flashed open and from within came the report of a rifle. At the same moment General Reyes, standing near Diaz, crumpled into a heap. He had been shot through the head and died instantly.

His death was the signal for a general fight. In an instant the machine guns on the roof of the cathedral began spitting their hail of lead and steel, and simultaneously the artillery which had approached from the south began an attack on the cavalry.

The mob in the streets swung about and beat a hasty retreat for any kind of shelter. In a minute or two the plaza was filled with the dead and dying. It is conservatively estimated that 200 were killed in the plaza and that 500 were wounded. Among those slain were three Americans, two women and a man. Outside the plaza resembled a shambles. The battle favored the federals, who, not keeping faith with Diaz, turned the machine guns on the troops below.

Diaz, with the remnant of cavalry and a few other soldiers, escaped and made their way to the artillery barracks and the arsenal, where another fierce battle resulted. The federals had possession of the barracks and shortly thereafter a truce followed. During this Diaz rode down the street calling for volunteers to overthrow the government.

Madero Kept Cool.

President Madero took the revolution calmly. Showing absolutely no fear or excitement, he went from his house in an auto to San Juan De Letran, where he conferred with General Huerta, who remains loyal to the government. Madero made a fervent address and pleaded with the people for order. He finally went out on the streets unescorted, mounted on a large white horse, and deliberately rode through San Francisco street to the national palace in the Zocalo plaza. That he had not lost his nerve was apparent to all.

As he went on his way he was bowing and smiling as if it was just an ordinary gala occasion. Soldiers who had been shouting for Diaz presented arms as the president passed them. Madero was followed by an immense throng shouting "Viva Madero."

Madero at once established himself in the national palace, which was still guarded by a force of loyal troops and large numbers of irregulars and a battalion or two of police. It is impossible to make a forecast of the outcome, but if the mobs get the upper hand it is likely to be a repetition of the Paris commune. A large Maderista mob found vengeance in destroying the buildings and plants of the anti-Maderista papers, El Pais and La Tribuna.

Madero has been able to repel the revolutionists from the palace, but rebel guards hold the greater part of the city. The Zapatista forces are rapidly approaching and there is a definite belief on all sides that the end of the Madero rule must come within a few hours. The family of the president have sought refuge in the Japanese legation.

The women of the United States army have contributed $2,000 to the fund for the Women's Titanic memorial fund. The gifts, of $1 each, have been forwarded from all parts of the world wherever United States troops are stationed.

BILL TO PREVENT CHECK SWINDLE

state of the drawer's mind was such that he had fraud in view, is incumbent on the prosecution, under the Harlan bill, the defendant, in case of prosecution would have the burden of showing that the reason he issued the worthless checks was a good one, and not a fraudulent one.

It is to be noted that the bill specifically covers the obtaining of credit by means of worthless checks, and the paying of an obligation by worthless check. The present law has not been able to reach several situations, which arise in the course of business, and whereby persons accepting checks are defrauded.

Mr. Mallory did not know what frightened the animal.

SOMETHING TO DO BESIDES PAY

"is coming to be an easy thing. Everything is prepared for your convenience. There is only one thing this church lacks, and that is cushions on the seats and head rests at the back. Nothing is designated for the child. It has to sit on an uncomfortable seat with its feet dangling down, a most uncomfortable position because the blood is closest to the skin at the back of the knee.

"We have a new task—a glorious task—this preparation of the church for the child. It is His desire that the life He creates shall unfold in beauty, and in His image. I am especially glad that I came here at this time when you have a building committee and are expecting to add to the church to make it attractive to the children."

Mr. Shephard said that all he knew of the Rushville Christian church and its wonderful work had been mere hearsay, but that now it is seersay.

He spoke of the narrowness of many churches—their tendency to travel in a circle. He recalled that a friend of his, who was called to the foreign field, wrote back he knew nothing that he desired less than to be held down by a doleful, visionless, selfish church.

"Every man must have a creed," continued Mr. Shephard, "and be happy when he lifts his face and says: 'I know who I believe in.' There are some people who can not work on their own initiative. If there were no Methodist church, for instance, one would have to be created. They have to have the collar and harness put on them and be told to go. Others can not work except in their own harness. Sometimes they get so proud of their harness that they do nothing but sit around and brag about it."

Mr. Shephard reviewed the early history of church organization. He declared the church never had such an opportunity as was offered Luther, but that he went over to the princes and allowed the slaughter of 300,000 of Europe's best laboring people. He did the best he knew, the speaker added, but the pity is that he did not know better.

"Out of the reformation" said Mr. Shephard, "emerged the doctrinal church. Twenty-five years ago a minister would never have prayed for the recovery of one of another denomination as your pastor did this morning. But we are getting away from that.

"The doctrinal age has passed. The day of the pew and pulpit worship is no more. It was such a perversion of the Gospel that made fellowship almost impossible. It did not come naturally from the Bible; it was inherited from Rome. The world is scrutinizing the church as never before. It is looking for deeds."

Mr. Shephard, besides talking at both the morning and evening services, addressed Bible school workers Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, and made a short talk at the Sunday school. At one of these gatherings, he urged the Christian church to tear down the iron gates that bar the entrance except when some meeting is to be held. He advocated that the church be left open all the time.

TAKEN TO MADISON.

DETAILS HER VARIED CAREER

Feature Story in Indianapolis Star Deals With Mrs. Harry Willard's Ventures.

IN THE FIELD OF MATRIMONY

She Will Be Remembered as Wife of Gilbert Monfort Who Married First Husband.

Writing under her maiden name of June Hudgins, Mrs. Ned Crosby of Milroy, formerly of this city, contributes a feature story to the current issue of the Indianapolis Sunday Star, which gives in detail the varied career of Mrs. Mollie Willard of Milroy, who, having forsaken the name of her first husband to marry Gilbert Monfort, has taken him back again and is once more known to the world as Mrs. Willard.

Rush county people will recall the interesting twist that the career of Mrs. Willard took as it were chronicled in local newspapers some months ago. At the time of her marriage to her first husband the fact was recorded that he had returned after a long and unexplained absence.

It will be remembered, too, that J. W. Tompkins was the "goat" in all of the legal transaction. Being a former resident of Milroy and acquainted with Mrs. Willard, he was called on as a witness for the plaintiff, when she secured a divorce from her first husband, and again from Monfort.

Mr. Tompkins also possessed a questionable piece of paper when Harry Willard left rather mysteriously and under suspicious circumstances years ago, and deserted his wife.

Gilbert Monfort of North Vernon appeared on the scene. He wooed and won the hand of Willard's deserted wife, after she had divorced him.

But Monfort passed a forged check at the Price saloon here, when his funds were low, and he was arrested. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the state penitentiary where he is now serving a term. It was not long before Mrs. Monfort applied for a divorce and it was granted.

The peculiar thing in connection with the unusual trend Mrs. Willard's life history has taken is that all of them transpired in little more than a year. She obtained a divorce from Harry Willard October 5, 1911. It was less than a year September 16, 1912, when she got a divorce from Monfort. In exactly a month to a day—October 16, 1912 a marriage license was issued to her and Willard. Her maiden name was Mary A. Henderson.

The L. A. of the A. O. H. will have their regular meeting in the their lodge rooms tomorrow evening.
